

Essay of the Tuskegee Airmen

Have you heard of the Tuskegee Airmen? Well, I'll tell you all about it in this essay. They are a group of African Americans that were pilots. Also how they made a change to this world. This paper I will be describing the Tuskegee Airmen and their six guiding principles that led to their success.

The Tuskegee Airmen were a huge game changer. They fought in the American war. They were the first African American to go to college that the governor paid for. The reason they were a huge game changer is because they were very smart and talented. Each One of them aims high for success, to prove wrong to all the white folks that didn't believe they could do it. (1)

They prove them wrong by surviving and winning. Another thing is, most of the white people that were part of the pilot group were not passing as much, while the Tuskegee Airmen were passing by a lot more. That is so radical. That is a huge thing to be proud of. Proving wrong to someone that looks down you. (1)

The war changed people's perception of people's skin colors. Such as in how the Tuskegee Airmen didn't lose that many bombers they had in the war. As in all of the people that were part of the Tuskegee Airmen crew came back safe and sound. Also they showed that they are capable of doing what white people can do as well. Such as helping a war, defeating a war, over all just winning. (1)

The members of the Tuskegee Airmen showed no matter their skin color they can still do the same actions as others. People realized that no matter their skin color they can still be, Intelligent, courageous, strong, and just very great people that are just trying to help out. (1)

To conclude everything said in this essay will be. The Tuskegee Airmen were a group of African American Pilots that fought in a war with white people that were part of. Due to segregation the Tuskegee airmen were treated differently, poorly, and were hated by anyone who isn't a color person. They fought through and proved everyone wrong that no matter that color you are, you have the capability of succeeding and becoming great. They were amazing heroes to young people of color and to anyone that looks up to them. (1)

Till this day they are still true heroes. They will be remembered for as long history goes. I'm thankful for having people that are now recognized for what they have done to change our future generations. Let us appreciate how much they changed for us. May the Tuskegee Airmen be forever recognized as true heroes.
