Have you ever thought that you couldn't do something? When I first started hockey I thought that I would never be good at it, but now look at me. That's why you should try hard and believe in yourself.

I believe that if you aim high you can do anything. Theodore Roosevelt once said, keep your eyes on the star, and your feet on the ground.

Another thing to remember is never stop trying and your day will come. Never give up, great things take time. That's why you never give up. Remember why you are working so hard.

Also, fill your brain with giant dreams. The brain is a muscle when in use. That is why we need to use our brains.

If you don't believe that you can do stuff, you won't be able to do it. Like I started to believe in myself and I got better and I improved over time. That is why you have to believe in yourself. In conclusion, that is why you should be confident. It will help you do great things.
