

First Black Airmen

Have you always wondered what it's like to be part of the Army Air Force? Well the Tuskegee Airmen have faced many challenges in life, and had to face many fears. Until this day they are still known for being certified as the first black men to fly in the U.S. Air Force. These men have been treated so poorly. After what these men did, we must honor them and treat them with respect.

Trying to live is quite hard, even with hard challenges we all have to face. It is a challenge, especially when they have no weapons or armor except planes. They were the first black men in the military, including Air Crones. Out of all together they were soldiers and pilots. They completed training in the Army, then they joined Army Air Crones to have better advantages than before when they first used a plane.

Black men got treated incredibly horrible. Many of them were called black freaks, which is really rude. Most white men had bigotry against the blacks and most of them said it out loud like blacks suck and you don't deserve to be alive. For a while Most of the white men wanted segregation against the white and the black. Wight men were ungrateful for their partners and never helped in war with the Tuskegee Airmen.

After World War II many of the African Americans including black Americans had to go on many missions after World War II. Such as going to Germany. When they were there they shot 950 vehicles that Germans could escape with. They exploded 111 planes in the air. Also The Tuskegee Airmen also took 150 planes from the Germans.

Nyomi Janssen
6th Grade
Patterson Elementary School
1211 E Guadalupe Rd
Gilbert AZ 85234
602-430-8234

That is how you can imagine how life always is for the Tuskegee Airmen. Facing fears, facing challenges, going into battle, including getting injured. So that's why we should always honor them for what they did in war. Including, that we never shall treat a black man so rudely that their heart can be broken. Until this day we still honor what they do.